

Tracy, Spencer

Spencer moved to Yellowknife in 2007 and holds three university degrees, including a Bachelor of Education. His diverse northern work experience includes roles as an environmental scientist, teacher, carpenter, project manager, and small business owner.

Spencer is excited to collaborate with fellow school trustees and YK1 staff to help ensure our school system continues to meet the needs of Yellowknife's unique student body. In particular, he is keen to advocate for less screen time in schools, more opportunities for trades training, and a stronger focus on practical life skills such as cooking and personal finance. He also thinks the basics still matter - kids should know how to tie their shoes, print neatly, and do their times tables.
